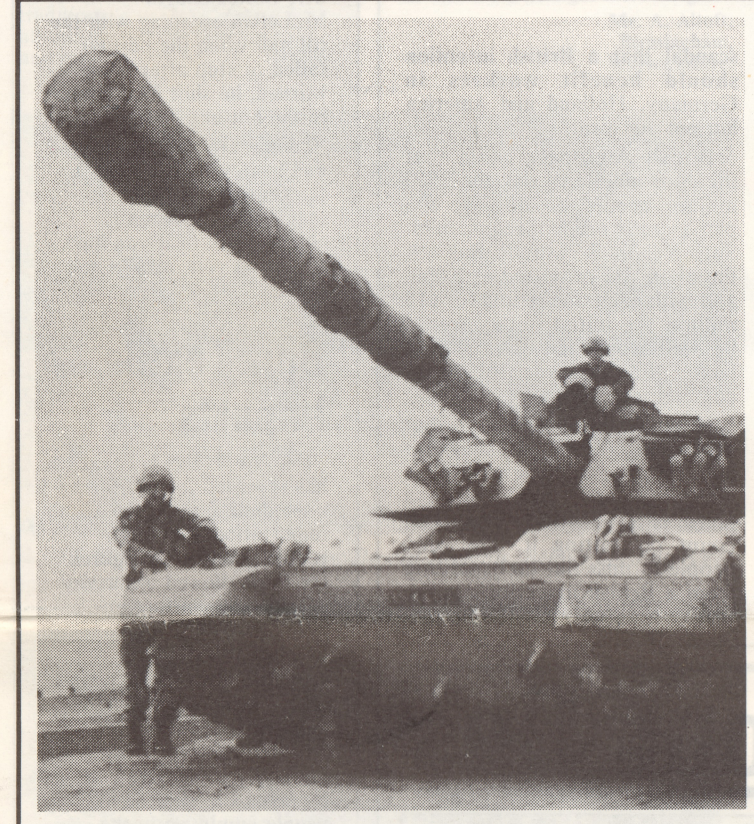
SO VERY BRAVE



PLAIN FACTS: British Troops are risking their lives fighting for their country. They have no other choice!

IT'S WAR AND WE MUST SUPPORT OUR TROOPS!

AN ARAB DICTATORSHIP, Iraq, has invaded Kuwait (another Arab dictatorship). This is not exactly an unusual event, in fact this sort of thing has been going on ever since there have been Arabs in the Middle East.

However this time the United States has led a war of retaliation against Iraq and British forces have become involved.

The National Front was against British soldiers, airmen and sailors being sent out to intervene in this Middle East conflict - if we had been in power we wouldn't have become embroiled in this war at all.

However once the first shot was fired the situation changed. With hostilities now taking place there are only two possible outcomes:

★ Either Saddam Hussein wins

★ Or the allied forces win.

A withdrawal of British troops would give victory to Saddam Hussein. So, now that the war has been started the National Front's attitude is simple:

★ British servicemen have died in this conflict - their sacrifice must not be in vain. We give our full support to our armed forces to win this war as quickly as possible, and THEN TO GET THEM OUT OF THE MIDDLE EAST AS QUICKLY AS IS PRACTICABLE!

FRONT BOMB FIFTH COLUMN!

GENUINE PEACE campaigners were few on the ground as Saddam Hussein's Fifth Column slouched through London on Saturday 26th January.

The so-called 'Peace March' provided the ideal opportunity for every anti-British weasel to come out of their holes and chant anti-British slogans.

The Labour Party, Socialist Workers, Communists, Muslim fanatics, Queer Groups and every shade of ethnic minority living off Britain - they were all there undermining our brave young soldiers and chanting 'Victory to Saddam Hussein'.

Thankfully the National Front were on hand to fly the flag for Britain. Around thirty London members led by NF Chairman, Ian Anderson, opposed the march as it left the Embankment. A forest of Union Jacks and NF placards proclaiming "Support our Troops" greeted the marchers and arch traitor, the pro-Argentinian Tam Dalyell, got a flour bomb full in the face for all his anti-British comments during his years in Westminster.

The true colours of many of the marchers were shown afterwards when at Hyde Park they joined a pro-IRA march to North London. Clearly they don't want peace as far as the IRA are concerned!

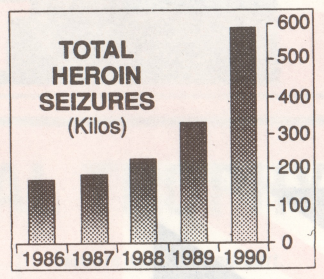
Drugs Flood Into Britain

DRUGS ARE flooding into Britain and Customs Officers and the Police are helpless to do anything about it.

Despite the fact that during 1989 the seizure of Cocaine increased by 49% to 434 kgs, it is just the tip of the iceberg.



1991 kicked off with Scottish Customs Officers seizing 500 kgs of cocaine with a street value of £50 million in a raid on a remote part of North-West Scotland, but the haul provided no reason for celebration.

Customs Officers believe that for every one such seizure there are ten such drug smuggling operations that succeed, which shows the total helplessness of the authorities to stem the tide of drugs flooding into Britain.

The National Front believes the introduction of the Death Penalty for the manufacturers of hard drugs would destroy the drugs industry at a stroke. It's a policy that is grudgingly being accepted by the Customs and Excise as the only way to halt the flow of dangerous drugs into Britain.

"Employ Blacks or Else!"

THE LABOUR Party has unveiled plans to fine or close down firms that don't employ its quota of Blacks and Asians.

Labour's Deputy Leader, the grotesque Roy Hattersley, launched his Party's plans during January to force British companies to take on ethnic minority staff whether they wanted to or not.

Sitting alongside Hattersley as he spelt out Labour's vision of multi-racial Britain were big-wigs from the Race Relations Board who couldn't conceal their glee at the news that their Race Relations Gestapo were to get more power.

Extra Holidays For Asians

LABOUR COUNCILLORS in Birmingham want Asian council employees to have extra holidays so that they can celebrate their religious festivals.

Muslims, Hindus and Sikhs would have five more holidays than British employees so that they could celebrate festivals such as Diwali and Ramadan.

A counter proposal by a group of English council workers that they should be allowed St George's Day off as a holiday was described by a spokesman in the office of Council Personnel Director, Henry Core, as " . . . racist, and probably National Front propaganda".

● BRITISH EXPERTISE: An artist's impression of British Areospace's New Regional Jet.

SQUANDERED!

It's a British Invention, but the Jobs go Abroad!

BRITISH PLANE-BUILDERS ARE to challenge the might of the American giant plane-makers for the first time since the 1950's when the Boeing 707 made its rivals obsolete overnight.

British Aerospace's New Regional Jet, which will carry 125 passengers, will cost £500 million to develop and is due to be launched in 1996.

But that is where the good news ends. As with almost every other British invention in the last ten years the benefits and financial rewards of the project are to go abroad. There is no reason for celebrations by workers in Britain's areospace industry for jobs on the BAe 146 are to go to Germany, Holland and even Boeing in America.

The £15 million plane is to be sold as a member of BAe "Whisper Jet" series although it has two rather than four engines and upturned wingtips, currently only available on the latest American jumbo jets.

While some jobs created by the building of the jet will be at Hatfield in Hertfordshire, more than 80% of the work will be farmed out abroad.

A National Front Government would insist that BAe build the plane in Britain using British workers in British factories. It is a scandal that a British invention should benefit workers in Germany, Holland and America but not our own.

British Areospace claim that they are unable to risk the £500 million needed to develop the plane and need foreign help. Such a claim is pathetic. Sales of the plane are projected at 2,000, and with each one selling for £15 million the initial outlay would be well worth it. BAe should have the courage of their convictions.

But industry doesn't work that way today. All the parasites that feed off British industry without doing any of the work want a piece of the action. They can count on getting it. The only people to miss out on benefiting from a British invention are the British people!

You Have To Defend Your Own!

THE NATIONAL Front applauds the magistrates in Cambridge who refused to convict a greengrocer who had shot a raider trying to burgle his shop.

Mr Mark Bowes and his wife Deborah, who was pregnant, were asleep in the flat above their shop in Cambridge when Robert McLellan broke in.

■ Mr Mark Bowes

Mr. Bowes caught McLellan escaping with the till and when the burglar failed to stop after being warned, he shot McLellan in the bottom.

"People are getting mugged and beaten up everyday", the shopkeeper told the magistrates, "When it comes down to it you have to defend your own".

Ban Textile Imports

THE NATIONAL Front has repeated its call for an immediate ban on the importation of foreign textile goods after figures for 1990 showed a massive 8% increase in foreign-made clothing goods flooding into Britain.

£6.1 billion worth of texiles from Third World sweatshops poured into Britain last year causing massive job loses and reducing the number of people employed in the industry in Britain down to an all-time low of 480,000.

Foreign Toys Harm our Kids

IN THE December issue of 'The FLAG' we revealed the extent to which cheap and dangerous toys had been flooding into Britain from the Far East under-cutting our British manufacturers preparing for the Christmas market.

Now we can reveal that during 1990 47,000 children suffered injury from cheap, foreign and defective toys.

The National Front calls for a ban on all foreign toys coming into Britain. We must protect our children as well as promoting the British toy industry which caters for our youngsters with safe and well-made toys.

Attacked For Flying the Ulster Flag

NINETEEN YEAR-old Sean McHale needed 24 stiches to his face after being attacked by an IRA supporter in a pub in Bath.

Mr McHale was wearing a T-Shirt showing the Ulster flag as he enjoyed a Boxing Day drink with friends in the Bell Public House in Walcot Street. He was approached by a man who said he liked the IRA.

When Sean said that members of the IRA should be hanged, the man threw a glass in his face and ran out of the pub. Sean chased him but the man got into a Land Rover and drove off.

■ Sean McHale

Sean was taken to Bath Royal United Hospital where doctors told him that he was lucky not to lose an eye in the attack.

Sean McHale, a regular reader of 'The FLAG', said he had received much support since the Bath Evening Chronicle reported the attack and he hadn't missed an opportunity in letting people know that the National Front was the only political party that stood by Ulster!

FEAR FOR FOXES GROWS WITH TUNNEL RABIES RISK

RESEARCHERS AT Bristol University believe that Britain is more at risk than at any time before from rabies, and it all due to the Channel Tunnel.

● FOXES: Facing a grim future

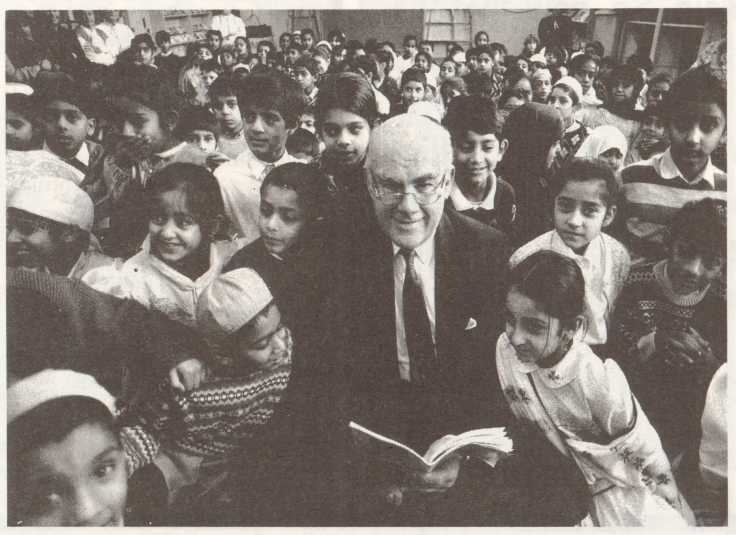
With cases of Rabies reported regularly in Northern France the opening of the tunnel put Britain in danger from the killer disease.

If a single fox is infected Rabies will spread quickly through Britain's cities because foxes are now well established in city suburbs. In fact our cities harbour foxes at up to five times the density of rural areas.

Computer tests indicate that the only way to contain the disease would be to kill 92% of the fox population. A grim price to pay for saving a couple of hours on a trip to France!

Pickles in Pakistan?



IT APPEARS that Judge James Pickles left no stone unturned in his efforts to rasie money for 'Children in Need' last November. From the picture above it looks as though the controversial judge has travelled to Pakistan to raise money for the worthy cause. But just a minute, aren't those white teachers in the background? Further investigation reveals that Judge Pickles is not in Asia at all but just at Warwick Junior School in Batley, West Yorkshire.

End of our Bus

THE BRITISH double-decker bus is on the way to the scrap heap because of more Common Market madness!

The Single European Act insists on bus harmonisation and as Britain is the only one of 12 countries using the double-decker, it is set to be axed in 1992. It will cause havoc to Britain's already beleaguered public transport industry because double-deckers make up more than 30% of Britain's bus fleet.

London's red buses are a trademark of our capital city. It is a British stamp of tradition and that is why the bureaucrats in Brussels are determined to eradicate it. In the grey world of a united Europe, national traditions are something that will not be tolerated.

Sir Alec Rose

ALEC ROSE, the greengrocer who sailed around the world single-handed and became a national hero, has died at the age of 82.

Sir Alec typified that British sense of adventure when he made his epic voyage in his 36ft cutter Lively Lady in 1967.

In later years Sir Alec raised money for the R.N.L.I.

Naa Woofters!

Sinn Fein/IRA Connection: More Evidence

MORE EVIDENCE, as if it were needed, linking Sinn Fein with the IRA has come to light with the charging of Owen Smyth with possessing arms and explosives.

Smyth, a Sinn Fein councillor in the Irish Republic, appeared before a Special Criminal Court in Dublin at the end of January.

BIGGEST-SELLING TABLOID COPIES FLAG'S LOGO!

by Martin Wingfield

PLAGIARISM IS the greatest compliment someone once said. It's true for the kidnapping of the logo of The FLAG by Britain's biggest selling daily tabloid, The Sun does not send me hot-foot to my solicitor demanding action but leaves me with a warm glow of pride as the telephone never stops ringing and the mailbag has been suitably swelled with readers of The FLAG saying "Have you seen The Sun".

Yes Britain's biggest selling daily newspaper has lifted the NF's newspaper's logo, for the duration of the Gulf War at least. The fact the Rupert Murdoch's rag feels it necessary to fly the flag during the crisis typifies the "Beer and Hurrah" patriotism that that paper expounds. It's as different as chalk and cheese to the patriotism and Nationalism of the National Front.

We fly the flag every single day - not just during the time of War. We stand up and support everything pro-British in every single issue of our paper, not just during times of conflict. Our patriotism is built from the love of our country and people, not just fired, as in The Sun, by shouting at our enemies when it suits.

There is a big difference between the patriotism of The FLAG and The Sun. As there is a big difference between the Nationalism and loyalty of the National Front and the part-time, flag-waving jingoism of the Tories. It's a difference mirrored in the forest of Union Jacks that parade with the National Front to the Cenotaph every year, and the cheap but profiteering, Union Jack plastic bags that The Sun displays its patriotism with!

NF in North-West

EIGHTEEN MONTHS AGO the North West Region of the National Front was non-existent. There were no functioning branches and only a handful of towns even had any members. Today the situation is radically different. We have members in most towns and cities and branches in Wigan, Bolton, Blackburn, Liverpool and Manchester.

At the first meeting of the Regional Council it was decided to adopt a candidate for their General Election effort in Manchester North. The credit for this progress must go to just a handful of people. Firstly John Hamilton, a long standing member of the National Front who has been with us since the 1970's. Almost singlehandedly he acted as the catalyst which set the whole growth in motion.

He was rewarded by recruiting a group of very able young men, people like Dave Sudworth from Wigan, Steve Ebbs from Blackburn and Alistair Thompson from Nelson. As a result of their combined efforts the Party has achieved dramatic growth in the North West and this has now been acknowledged by the Directorate agreeing to the election of a regional representative (Dave Sudworth) as a member of the Directorate.

The aim of the Regional Council is now to further expand and set up branches in towns like Rochdale, Blackpool, Preston, etc. The North-West has traditionally been a strong area for the National Front, and it doesn't look as though it will be too long before that is true once again.

Concern at NF Growth in Scotland

ALISTAIR OSBOURNE, the Labour Party prospective parliamentary candidate for Ayr has voiced concern over the growth of the National Front in the constituency.

NF papers had been sold and leaflets distributed in the Whitletts area of the town causing local 'ethnic officer', David Bell to add his worried voice to that of the Labour candidate's.

A spokesman for NF Press Office confirmed that NF activity was taking place in many parts of Scotland and that members in Ayr had bought bulk supplies of 'The FLAG'.

Wilshaw to Stand in Exeter

THE EXETER Branch of the National Front have selected Kevin Wilshaw as their candidate to fight the Exeter seat at the forthcoming General Election.

Mr Wilshaw was chosen from a short list of three and was the guest speaker at the January meeting of the NF in Exeter.

A hard-working member of our National Health Service, Kevin is also a loyal and tireless worker for the National Front. It is no surprise, despite him working throughout the night, to see Kevin at Brick Lane on a Sunday morning giving support to the NF papersellers there.

'The FLAG' wishes him the best of luck with his campaign in the West Country.

Anti-Soviet Demo

MEMBERS OF LONDON NORTH National Front held a protest against Soviet actions in the Baltic States on the evening prior to the start of the Gulf War.

They demonstrated outside of the offices of Soviet News/ Soviet Weekly in Rosary Gardens, South Kensington carrying placards proclaiming, "Free the Baltic States" and "Hands of Lithuania".

Kelvin Sanderson of the National Front's Overseas Liaison Department told the London Standard. "We have been in touch with Nationalists in Vilnius who say the situation is desperate. The Soviet Military is gradually taking over the country".

Despite the distraction of the Gulf War, the National Front has been quick to stand behind the Baltic States. The brutal use of force in Lithuania and the threat of it in Estonia and Latvia is a cheap trick by the Soviet leadership at a time when the world is concentrating on the Gulf. It is reminiscent of the invasion of Hungary during the Suez Crisis.

Coventry Hosts Officials' Conference

DELEGATES FROM all over the country gathered at the Windmill Park Hotel, just outside Coventry, on Saturday 19th January for the Annual National Front Officials' Conference.

In the timbered conference suite officials discussed the party's strategy and tactics for the coming year.

With our aims for the General Election well settled, concentrated attention was given to the May local elections. Substantially increased numbers of candidates can be expected but the emphasis was on ensuring that every single candidate would be backed up by a campaign that starts now.

After lunch some of the television coverage achieved by the party recently was shown on video. Much of this has been on regional programmes and most officials had only seen some, if any, of it.

After this Steve Brady gave a speech on the Gulf Crisis and the policy of the National Front on that issue. He managed to include his usual quota of jokes including the gem: "Why are the American troops like a bunch of bananas? They start off green, some turn yellow and an increasing proportion are black!"

The open forum was largely devoted to determining an exact response to the Gulf War and a new range of stickers was decided upon, as well as a number of high profile activities.

The day was rounded off by Party Chairman Ian Anderson who talked of the steady progress of the party, its recent growth and current expectations. He emphasised the need for every single member to behave as an ambassador of the party and for the need to avoid the mistakes of the past. Given this, plus plenty of hard political work he predicted that 1991 would be a year of growth and progress for the National Front . . . and some nasty shocks for our enemies.

Finally particular thanks to John Hill and the Birmingham Branch of the National Front for their help in organising this very successful day.

Steve Brady Conducts Election

THE RAPIDLY-growing NF in the North-West took a further step forward on Saturday January 12th when members from across the region gathered in a plush central Wigan hotel to elect their first Regional Representative to the NF's governing body, the National Directorate.

Around thirty members from all over the region, from Clitheroe to Stockport, from North Manchester and Liverpool Bolton, mid-Lancashire and host town Wigan, voted hard-working Wigan and Bolton Organiser Dave Sudworth onto the Party Directorate.

An interesting talk on the situation in his country from a South African visitor and a rousing address by NF Deputy Chairman Steve Brady - who conducted the Directorate election by secret ballot of members present - were other highlights of the evening.

COAL MUST BE KING AGAIN!

by Steve Brady

THE LAST COAL mine in the Rhondda, Maerdy, has been closed. It is the latest in a series of brutal pit closures imposed by the Tories. Since 1985, 101 pits, 60% of Britain's mines, have been closed down.

143,000 miners, 65% of all those in the industry, have been thrown onto the dole. And what is the cause of this devastation of one of Britain's greatest industries, the cornerstone of our industrial greatness? It is cheap foreign coal imports, dumped on our home markets.

British coal is produced at around £1.50 to £2.00 per gigajoule. Imported foreign coal has been dumped on our market at £1.10 per gigajoule. This undercutting is partly due to the fact that the coal is being produced by cheap sweated labour in appalling conditions in places like China and Colombia. But it is also due to the producer countries selling coal to Britain for less than they charge at home. They do this in order to drive the British industry out of business and secure the UK coal market for themselves. And the "British" Government stands by and lets them do it!.

The destruction of our home-grown energy supply industry which this foreign dumping has already caused will get worse. Only two of 62 British mines examined in a report recently published by McCloskey Coal Information can compete with the price of foreign coal. The rest face closure. 15 more British pits, and 15,000 more jobs, are likely to go in the next three years.

Six of the twelve pits in the South Yorkshire coalfield, for example, are at risk from foreign coal. When British Coal is privatised, the City sharks are expected to keep only six deep pits and some open cast mines, which hideously disfigure and pollute the landscape. The rest of Britain's coal mining industry will go the way of the Rhondda.

Yet Britain needs coal. 58.6% of our electricity comes from coal. As Lord Haslam said in his retirement speech as Chairman of British Coal last month, coal is likely to remain our main source of power well into the next century.

In a world in which - as events in the Gulf have shown - dependence on imported energy sources by Western countries is unreliable and threatens world peace, Britain's coal is a priceless resource. Together with our oil and gas, it offers us the prospect of our country being self-sufficient in the energy it needs. Our economy could be secure. No foreign dictator or war could threaten its lifeline. Yet we are throwing that resource away.

The National Front supports British coal. We backed the miners in 1984, joining the National Union of Mineworkers in fighting to save a vital energy resource for Britain. Their loss was our country's loss. Today the NF demands a ban on imported foreign coal. Such import controls would transform the future of our coal industry, removing the threat of closure from existing pits and offering the real prospect of the re-opening of pits like Maerdy. With it will come the kiss of life for the Welsh valleys, much of Yorkshire, Nottinghamshire, Derbyshire and even Kent, where coal is the heart of the local community.

Relying on British coal will make our country stronger and safer. Better to depend on British coal than Arab oil!

● COAL MUST BE KING AGAIN: A revival in the British coal industry will be the kiss of life to many areas where communities are based around the pit.

IMPORTS KILL TIN INDUSTRY

TIN MINING in Cornwall goes back over four thousand years. A hundred years ago, the county was the hard-rock mining capital of the world.

Today only two mines are still open, and now it has been announced that one of them, the famous Wheal Jane mine between Truro and Cambourne, will close in June.

The reason Wheal Jane is closing, according to its owners, is the same reason the other thousand or so mines have closed in Cornwall over the last hundred years. The undercutting of Cornish tin by foreign imported metal, making Britain more dependent on unreliable overseas supplies for yet another key economic resource.

The NF demands import controls on tin. That alone will save and indeed restore the Cornish tin industry. In the process keeping Cornwall alive as more than a retirement home for Home Counties fat cats.

As the Cornish would put it "Kernow rak Kernewek! Bys vyken agan gwerthy sten!"

OPEN UP THE AIRWAVES

By Stuart Lake

HAVE YOU EVER wondered just how independent your local radio station really is? Apart from having to take a number of networked programmes, including the Independent Radio News bulletins, there exists an incestuous web of subsidiaries and stake-holdings to suggest that there are few that are indeed independent.

The IBA currently restricts companies to a maximum potential audience of 15% of the adult population. What the IBA overlooks is that for most areas of the country the listeners have no choice - they are served by only one local station

Midlands Radio PLC owns BRMB, Radio Leicester, Mercia Radio and Trent Radio. With these four stations it reaches 12% of the population. Midlands Radio is part owned by Crown Communications which also owns LBC and its access to the 10 million people in Greater London. So much for the 15% ruling!

Of course if you get fed up with LBC you can tune into its rival Capital which is headed by the anti-British Richard Attenborough.

A secretive Australian company Darling Downs TV owns nine operations from Radio Tay in Scotland to Ocean Sound in Portsmouth.

Eric Morley of Miss World fame owns four stations in Yorkshire and Manchester that have an audience of 6 million. Other conglomerates exist around the country.

Those who control the media control of minds of its audience and can shape the destiny of cultures and nations, radio is no exception. The NF calls for tighter controls on the number of operations owned by any company and at the same time genuine freedom of choice by opening up the airwaves to more community based radio.

DENNING MADE A POINT OF LAW!

by Paul Snell

LAST YEAR Lord Denning made a point of law regarding Leon Brittain's status in the EC and his over-ruling of some point of English law, under the guise of the Treaty of Rome.

Lord Denning stated that we did not want 'some Jew' telling us what to do, with regard to superior English Law. I have delved deeply into the annals of English Law and come up with the act which neatly describes this conflict of interests.

The act is not effective in the EC, of course.

Armagh Four Enquiry Re- Opened

THE CAMPAIGN for the release of the four Ulster Defence Regiment soldiers, jailed for life in 1986 for the murder of a Roman Catholic, took another step forward during January with the announcement of a new investigation into the police notes used during the trial.

A statement from the RUC said a preliminary report on forensic tests carried out on the police notes of interviews with the soldiers suggested that further investigation of certain points was necessary.

The news was welcomed the National Front who have been at the forefront of the campaign on the mainland for the release of James Hagen, Neil Latimer, Winston Allen and Noel Bell. A spokesman for the National Front's Ulster Department said "This is the first admission from the authorities that all is not well with regard to the case. It is the chink in the armour of evidence against the four soldiers that will lead to the demolishing of the case against them".

QUIBBLE OVER STORM DAMAGE!

HOMEOWNERS WHO suffer a second bout of storm damage after claiming for for an initial payout will find it a lot harder to get paid.

Insurance Companies, so quick to take your premiums are investigating thoroughly second claims, acknowledging that it is a lengthy business.

Waiting for a payout combined with a 10% rise in premiums doesn't really give the sort of service expected.

Kinnock Voices I.R.A. Line!

LABOUR LEADER Neil Kinnock echoed the IRA line on a visit to Ulster on last month. He told soldiers of the Parachute Regiment that "As far as I am concerned, Northern Ireland is Irish".

As far as the Provos are concerned it is too. But as far as most of Ulster's people are concerned, Ulster is British. Kinnock's Para audience must have wondered why the Leader of the Opposition thought they were risking their lives against the IRA every day! The Paras showed remarkable restraint in not throwing Labour's Welsh windbag out on his ear after he had the nerve to tell them they shouldn't be in Ulster and that their comrades murdered by the IRA died in vain.

● WELSH WINDBAG: Kinnock was lucky the Paras showed restraint!

The Labour Party agrees with the IRA that British Ulster should be handed over to the Irish Republic. Some members of the Labour Party, including some Labour M.P.'s agree with the IRA over a lot more than that. Provo terror chief Gerry Adams has been invited to address Labour Party meetings throughout Britain.

Meanwhile Tory Ulster Secretary Peter Brooke has told the IRA they can't lose. Only the National Front on the mainland of Great Britain stands solidly behind the British people of Ulster and the Paras and says "Ulster is British forever! Smash the IRA!"

THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN TORIES & THE NF

THE TORIES ARE ASHAMED OF THEIR NATURAL INSTINCTS

by Colin Sykes

THE GALBRAITH affair does more than illustrate the abject hypocrisy of the Tory Party. It is a marvellous example of the essential difference between Conservative thinking on race and Nationalist thinking.

There are thousands of Conservatives who oppose immigration and favour repatriation of those immigrants already here. Indeed until the National Front makes a major break-through, the Tory Party is the natural home for racialists in this country.

The difference between the Tories and the NF is a simple one: they believe their natural feelings about race are somehow wrong. There is nothing they fear more than being labelled "a racialist".

We on the other hand know that racialism is right. We wear our racial nationalism on our sleeve with pride because our goal is a noble one - the long term survival of our race and nation.

It is a difference of motivation, of priorities, and of values. The Tories' basic message is: don't rock the boat, keep your mouth shut and you'll make a few bob and that's all that matters. The country can go to the dogs as long as the Stock Market performs.

Our vision is different. We in the NF share a progressive dream: for a greater Britain and a greater people.

The bottom line is: What kind of people do we want to be? A country of sheep bought off by consumer goods? Or a nation fit to be descended from the men who carved out the greatest empire the world has ever seen!

● INSIGHT: The Galbraith Affair revealed Tory fears.

● EXPECTANT MOTHER: A pregnant sow is tethered in a stall so narrow that she cannot turn around. She will spend 16 weeks imprisoned behind bars.

Barbaric Form Of Pig Farming

MORE THAN 200,000 pigs are suffering the most appalling treatment at the hands of Britain's new breed of get-rich-quick agri-business farmers.

The method of pig rearing being used in more than half of Britain's pig farms gives a new dimension to the word 'cruelty'. One animal welfare campaigner from the RSPCA's Sussex headquarters told The FLAG, "It's on a par with battery farming except the sow suffers more in her confinement."

It is a barbaric form of farming. The pregnant sow is kept in a dry stall confined between metal bars on a concrete and slat floor for her 4 month pregnancy. She is unable to turn around and in many cases is tethered to the floor.

The Tory Government acknowledges it is a grim practice but have given it a clean bill of health until 1998.

The National Front calls for immediate action. Ban this brutal method of pig-rearing NOW!

SICK DUTCH

CHANGES IN the vice laws in Holland mean that children as young as twelve can legally be abused sexually by adults. The new law also means that homosexuals can prey on young boys as young as twelve with the full backing of the Dutch authorities.

Drugs, child pornography, homosexuals and now sexual consent at 12. What a sick people the Dutch are. Britons can show their distaste at Dutch liberalism by boycotting all goods from Holland on sale in Britain.

Real Nations Fighting to be Free!

WHILST IRAQ'S INVASION of Kuwait was greeted within five months with a massive military response, the Soviet invasion of the Baltic States has gone unpunished for fifty years. Indeed, recent Soviet moves to brutally crush bids for national freedom by Lithuania and Latvia, two of these states, have been met with a blind eye from US and other "Western" leaders. Keeping Moscow sweet over the Gulf seemingly excuses behaviour no better than Saddam's.

Yet the Baltic States's case for our help is far stronger than Kuwait's. Kuwait, after all, is a state arbitrarily created on a map by British colonial authorities less than a hundred years ago. In no sense is there a separate Kuwaiti culture, let alone language or, really, sense of nationhood.

GENUINE NATIONS

The Baltic States, on the other hand, are genuine nations, thousands of years old, with their own distinctive languages and cultures quite separate from those of the Russians. The Baltic Governments against which the Kremlin has sent tanks are freely elected by the vote of the people, not degenerate tyrants and parasites like Kuwait's Al Sabahs. Finally, the Balts are our fellow Europeans, our ethnic kith and kin, not a bunch of alien Arabs.

Of course, the USSR, sick as it is, is a much tougher nut than Iraq. Sending in the warplanes and troops isn't really an option. But that doesn't mean we can't do anything to help the brave Balts. Today's Soviet Union, unlike the aggressive, confident superpower that rolled into Hungary and Czechoslovakia, is in deep trouble. Its economy is in ruins, its regime is weak and clearly rejected, and not just by the Balts but by the Russian people themselves. Its leaders are begging for our help, our money, our know-how, even our food, to survive. That gives us the lever we could use to pry the Balts free.

Instead, Gorbachev is getting everything he wants. Grovelling over the Gulf prevails. Despite the fact that the USSR can now do nothing in that theatre one way or the other. It is both useless and harmless. Britain must apply to Gorbachev the same standards we apply to Saddam. Otherwise the moral authority upholding our troops at the Gulf front will be undermined by the stink of hypocrisy.

SORDID CONSIDERATIONS

The Balts have no oil. Nor is there an ethnic lobby holding the US Government in thrall with an interest in seeing their oppressor humbled. We are told it is not for such sordid considerations but for a small nation's fight to be free that British Servicemen are dying in the Gulf.

If so, why are we doing nothing to help the Balts? Have they not at least as much right as the Kuwaitis to be free of a brutal foreign regime which is murdering their people, or is upholding that right to national freedom no more than just a propaganda smokescreen covering the machinations of greed and sectional interest in the Gulf.

In the Baltic it is action, not the words, that is needed from Governments in London and Washington. The honour of our brave fallen in the Gulf demands it. That is unless, of course, they gave their lives for a lie!

OXFAM FUNDS THIRD WORLD BABY BOOM

Stars Call For Action!

by Steve Brady

MEDIA STARS and other prominent supporters of Oxfam are fed up with the way the charity just dishes out food and similar aid to Third World populations without dealing with the root cause of their hunger - the fact that there are simply too many of them.

Actresses Susannah York, Susan Hampshire and Judi Dench, as well as comedian Bill Oddie and environmentalist David Bellamy, all of whom have helped Oxfam raise money in the past, are threatening to boycott the charity unless it does more to promote birth control among fast-breeding Third Worlders.

Currently Oxfam refuses to help these people do something about their booming populations because it thinks that would be "racist cultural imperialism". Yet, as the stars have seen, it is only common sense that if people in poor countries have huge families when they cannot feed the populations they already have, the famines there will only get worse.

As their spokesman, Susannah York, put it "I send money off to Oxfam like everybody else, but I feel very strongly about birth control and I believe that it has a direct link to poverty. Oxfam is not grasping the nettle".

Oxfam Director and former Labour Minister Frank Judd retorted that the stars were "simplistic and misinformed". He said the causes of starvation in overpopulated countries were too complicated for many people to understand.

But there is nothing complicated about the fact that the World's population is rising by 95 million a year. That nearly all of that rise is in Black, Brown and Yellow Third World countries, whilst White First World countries' populations, including Britain's, are static or falling. And that many of the poorest and hungriest Third World countries - notably in Africa - have the highest birth rates. While their food output is at best not keeping pace with their population growth and at worst is actually falling.

There is nothing complicated either about the fact that if the number of people in a country increases faster than their production of food there will be less food to go round and eventually people will start starving. Or that populations rocketing as fast as those of some Third World countries will sooner or later outstrip any possible food supply, either homegrown or thrown at them in foreign aid. After which they will simply start to die.

Obviously, just shipping them food will do no good in the end. Only helping them control their populations will permanently solve their famine problems. As the rebel stars see. Oxfam has been happy to use them to milk the British public of vast sums - last year alone £62 million.

It's about time they listened to their basic common sense. Or are Oxfam's trendy liberal bosses more worried about their fellows calling them "cultural imperialists" in Hampstead than about babies starving to death in the Third World? Meanwhile, as Winston Churchill put it, "We feed, they breed". Until in the end they starve.

● SUSAN HAMPSHIRE & SUSANNAH YORK: At last fund-raisers for charities are realising something must be done stop the population boom in the Third World.

Music Review With Robert Hawk

WITH THE Music Industry at its money-grabbing meanest as we enter 1991, the practise of home-taping of pre-recorded records and tapes is rife amongst music fans.

A greedy music industry has on the one hand capped the price of records and cassettes to over £7.00 a go whilst at the same time keeping the cost of the newer Compact Disc at an inflated £11. Faced with being increasingly robbed for the prices of their favourite music, most fans choose the cheaper means of listening to their favourite band or artist by taping albums from friends rather than part with their hard earned cash for perhaps forty minutes of music.

The net effect of this is to depress profits amongst recording artists particularly new bands trying to gain a popular following. This will seriously harm the music industry in the long run for it is on the basis of new talent that the industry as a whole will thrive.

If record company heads were to implement cheaper records and tape prices for records and tapes they would over-night increase revenue into record label doffers as fans would spend more on an increasingly cheaper product. Surely that's only common sense.

Peace Proposal

WHEN ARGENTINA attempted to annex the Falklands, did the United Nations (States) impose a blockade on Argentina? Well no, not exactly; in fact in no shape or form whatsoever.

What action did the United Nations (States) take over the Turkish annexation of half of Cyprus? Come to think of it, none whatsoever.

If France were to annex that tiresome principality called Monaco, would they be condemned as having declared war on the world? It really doesn't seem likely.

Why then all this to do over the Iraqi annexation of the Al Sabah family's private estate? It really is very mystifying.

For Kuwait really is simply the Al Sabah family's private estate. The people of Kuwait were merely the Al Sabah's tenants and were outnumbered ten to one by a vast army of foreign labourers. The Al Sabahs abolished the Kuwaiti mock parliament, the so-called "Consultative Assembly" because someone actually dared to question their absolute right to rule. They have, moreover, declared their readiness to see Kuwait reduced to a heap of smouldering rubble with, presumably, its remaining inhabitants annihilated in order that they might regain absolute possession of their private estate - after all, who needs tenants when there ae so many foreign labourers freely available?

Is it for this then that the bulk of our effective armed services are deployed in the Gulf as the auxiliaries of America's mongrel horde and under the command of America's mongrel Commander-in-Chief - merely to shed their blood in order that the Al Sabahs may once again claim absolute title to their private estate?

Well no, not exactly. For if all the defenders of democracy and freedom were to insist that when, or if, Kuwait is "liberated" the Kuwaiti people would be allowed to vote on whether or not they wanted their landlords back, the Al Sabahs would demand immediate negotiations with the Iraqis and the war would be over. Or would it?

For, as we all know, Kuwait is the pretext not the reason for the attack on Iraq. I think we all know the real reason!

Listen Youse Guys

I'VE ALWAYS considered that the greatest of America's numerous crimes against humanity is the near terminal injury it has inflicted on the English language.

While some Americanisms are graphic and amusing, most are childish, dirty, and demeaning, and the fact that they have been so readily adopted by so many people in this poor benighted country of ours is proof positive that the British Bulldog has been hybridised into a Yankee Doodle Poodle.

When I heard some twit or other speak in the Commons of "the world's fear of an international gangster armed with nuclear weapons" it was, of course, the now statutory description of Saddam Hussein but I thought at first that it was some brave soul daring to criticise the Americans.

For it is now obligatory for overstuffed American generals with hair on their chests and between their ears to employ the cheap gangster argot of third-rate Hollywood crime thrillers when describing their attacks on Iraq. Perhaps it is a Freudian slip or perhaps they think it is macho - a confidence booster after their Vietnam humiliation when they discovered that they were not so mucho macho as they thought.

That is bad enough but it is intolerable when British Government Ministers use the same gangster Americanisms in Commons "debates".

Now, when they describe the alleged and usually highly fanciful obliteration of Iraqi targets, they are no longer "destroyed", instead they are "taken out". If this were not incongruous enough it is positively bizarre when emanating from the plummy mouth of a Minister who is patently congenitally incapable of "taking out" the skin on a rice pudding.

I suppose it is only a matter of time, depending on the orders they receive from the White House, before we hear them speak of Saddam being "wasted" or "cooled" or "blown away".

When that day comes I'm sure that I shall feel an irresistible urge to - in the real English sense - take out the culprit and horsewhip him every foot of the way round the vast expanse of the British Library.

The Ted Budden Column

Ted Budden was a founder member of the National Front. In his column he gives his view of the world.

His comments and observations do not necessarily reflect NF Policy.

Another Fallen Star

I SUPPOSE it's my own fault for listening to the incessant deluge of stomach-churning hypocrisy that spills from radio and television day after day after day but it really is making me feel quite ill.

I don't blame the Americans. The emanations from that citadel of cant, that eternal fount of humbug, that great lie factory across the water, are very much as expected and could be said to have some positive therapeutic value - as an emetic.

No, it is our own people I blame - or rather our own politicians - if they could be in any sense described as our own.

For I have listened to the parliamentary "debates" on the Gulf; waiting with breathless anticipation for someone to ask what precise British interests, if any, are involved in the region to justify sending the bulk of our effective armed services to shed their blood for the Al Sabah family. I waited in vain. Nowadays, it seems, it is considered slightly indecent to suggest that British interests are of any consequence or, indeed, that we have a right to any national interests at all.

Instead I heard the wimpish Major (who, I understand, changed his family name from Ball because it wasn't grand enough) making an official Government statement by reading carefully from a prepared script - the care, no doubt, being necessary because the script had only just been telexed from Washington with nobody being quite sure what the British Government position is until the Americans tell them.

One of the few honourable exceptions to this mind-numbing plethora of platitude and grovelling acquiescence to the Pax Americana was Denis Healey, never before among my favourite politicians though much sought after as a TV personality and stand-up comedian.

His views were so logically and succinctly expressed that I thought for one breathtaking moment that he was about to mention British interest but he was not apparently feeling suicidal that day.

Since then the bold Healey has been subjected to such a storm of calumny and abuse that he now probably has some inkling of what it is like to be a National Front spokesman and of the perils of honesty in our free and democratic society; a novel experience indeed.

It seems highly probable that he will no longer be in such demand in this hoped-for twilight career of TV personality - a fallen star, in fact almost before he has risen.

Death Wish

I WAS intrigued by a TV report that showed the hordes of "refugees" from Eastern Europe now pouring into Germany and Austria and Czechoslovakia; intrigued in particular because although the commentator didn't actually mention the fact, a very high proportion of these "refugees" were not Europeans but persons of samboid aspect or others of dusky hue, many topped with turbans.

Interested too because I read that "official alarm is being expressed" that with the imminent free movement of labour within the EEC there is a mounting and virtually unchecked non-white immigration into the soft belly of the EEC; through France and Spain and Italy. Just so; official alarm is being expressed but nothing is actually being done about it - just like Britain over the last thirty years.

Again I was interested to read that there have been race riots in several Italian cities in recent times. Strange, is it not that we never seem to read in our newspapers of the really important things that happen next door, if those events are concerned with race, until well after they happened. But then I suppose, we must remember that the Toxteth race riots of a few years ago, right on our own doorstep, were witheld from publication for four whole days. I wonder why?

All the countries of Western Europe have ageing populations with birth-rates falling far below replacement levels. If that process continues our wonderful "free market economy" will demand the importation of more and more non-white labour and the White race will face an inevitable and irreversible decline unto death.

Has the White race become afflicted with madness, I wonder, or the death wish? I suspect neither. As I look around me I'm sure it must be brain death.

THERE IS now in existence a society called "The English Counties Association" whose aim is to press for the restoration of our ancient and historic counties. This is a laudable objective and surely must command the support of all National Front members.

Since 1974 we have witnessed the carving up and in several cases the complete obliteration of our traditional counties. This violates all our instincts of reverence for and pride in our national heritage.

What About British Pensioners?

CHINESE PENSIONERS in Tower Hamlets have been given free phone calls home by a firm in the City

Merrill Lynch opened up their offices in Ropemaker Street and laid on a coach service to pick-up and drop-off, so that Chinese pensioners, and Chinese pensioners only, could telephone their relatives back in Hong Kong.

They were allowed up to half an hour on the phones completely free of charge.

Why couldn't Merrill Lynch let British pensioners call their families in Australia, New Zealand and Canada? Why was it only Chinese Pensioners that were given the free calls?

A SPANKING new housing complex has been opened in Blackburn especially designed to house Asian families.

Three, four and five bedroomed houses are available for rents of just £39.00 because of a special project launched by Blackburn Council.

Basera Heights and Mandela Court are just two of the names that grace the development on Wimberley Street and December saw the keys of the first house being presented to Mr Ghulam Patel and his family.

In your paper you reported another housing development in Accrington that was for Asians only and reported a White resident saying "A generation of Accrington's young men was wiped out on the battlefields of Belgium in the First World War. It appears they gave their lives to make Accrington a fit place for Asians to live in".

Well, Blackburn too lost its young men and women in both World Wars and I fought in the last one. I'm livid that prefential treatment is being given to these foreigners!

Good to See the Flags of the White Commonwealth

I WAS pleased to see the flags of the White Commonwealth paraded at the front of the National Front Remembrance Day Parade.

Of course, to pay tribute the South African and Rhodesian war dead was the very purpose of the first NF parade to the Cenotaph, after the Government's Remembrance Day Parade decided to stop including them in their official service.

Over the years the NF too seemed to forget the roots, and reason for their parade, so it was especially pleasing to see the Rhodesian and South African flags receiving prominence again.

Best wishes for the future and keep persevering with those elections - you WILL win in the end.

Media Blackout

ON THURSDAY 3rd January I attempted to visit my mother, as I do every week, at a wardened home for the elderly in Stoke Newington. I was unable to see her because a riot was taking place and the Police advised me to leave the area as quickly as possible.

The streets were strewn with rubbish and every shop window appeared to be smashed. Gangs of Arabs were running amock and the Police seemed powerless to do anything about it.

I listen to every news bulletin and examined all the daily papers the following day but there was no mention of the disturbance. Can you possibly tell me why? Was it something to do with the Gulf Crisis?

The Government's Dilemma

IN VIEW that we are now at war with Iraq, and with the Holy War call by many Muslim Groups throughout the world, if the Government was to bring in conscription will it conscript regardless of race or religion.

This is a dilemma for the Government. Do they trust the ethnic minorities? You can hear it now, I'm not really British - or British enough to serve in the British army alongside British people

Do they conscript from purely British people, or would that be in breach of the Race Relations Act? And if they do that what will they do with the fifth column of Muslims in our country?

Of course this will not be a dilemma for a future National Front government. Our armed forces will be made up from only British people, as will the rest of our nation.

Better Booklist

I WRITE to congratulate the National Front on the books and merchandise it sells to promote British Nationalism.

For years booklists associated with the National Front carried publications which, in my view, linked British Nationalism with everything the Party was trying to distance itself from. It was so easy for the media to smear the NF when its booklist provided so much ammunition.

I am fully in support of the Freedom Books list. It carries books, videos and items that every British Nationalist could be proud to be associated with; Kipling, Bader, William Morris, Dawkins, Collis and J.R. Tolkein.

It's a booklist that shows realism and indicates that for the first time since 1974 the National Front is taking its politics seriously.

DIABOLICAL TROPHY COVERAGE!

NON-LEAGUE football fans are up in arms over the appalling coverage by the media of the FA Trophy, the premier Non-League Competition, the final of which is played at Wembley in May.

The 1st Round Proper on 12th January was totally ignored by the media. BBC's famous teleprinter in Final Score gave every obscure result possible but not one Trophy result despite the fact that all the GM Conference leaders were taking part.

At 6 o'clock, 75 minutes after the final whistle, Ceefax and Oracle still were not showing the Trophy's final results. All the games were listed but "no results were available".

The Sunday papers printed the results, but with no half-times, goalscorers, or attendances. It was diabolical coverage.

75% of the Trophy's ties that day had crowds over 1,000 yet the media thought the competition not newsworthy. The Scottish Second Division had only one attendance over 500 yet it got the full treatment, even with latest scores on Oracle.

Come on Media Moguls. Give the Non-League Football fans a fair crack of the whip.

The Health & Welfare of the Nation — Under Threat!

Stop the Playing Field Sell-Off!

LOCAL AUTHORITIES, receiving less money from Central Government for the rate support grant, are being forced to sell off their holdings of land to make up the difference.

Top of the list in saleable land assets are local and education authorities' playing fields and these are being sold off, at an ever-increasing rate, for development.

During January alone vast areas of playing fields in Essex, Surrey, Staffordshire, Kent, Nottinghamshire, Middlesex, Hertfordshire and Liverpool were all put up for sale.

Liverpool, the home of British football has been hit the hardest. Nine outdoor facilities have been sold off since April 1989 and a further 14 are up for sale. Even in 1988, the city had only 1,114 acres of playing fields, just over half of what a city of its size should have according to the National Playing Fields Association.

It is vital that National Front branches lead the way in bringing public opinion around to protecting our playing fields from development. Hemel Hempstead NF launched an effective leafletting campaign to make the townsfolk aware of the selling off of Jarman Playing Fields in the town which led to a public outcry.

Organisers should check with their town hall to find out if playing fields in their area are under the hammer.

Britain's outdoor sporting heritage is under threat, for the health and welfare of our future generations we must start protecting it NOW!

On the Fogerty Front

• FOGERTY LETS FLY: Adam Fogerty has Terry Armstrong in trouble.

THE FLAG'S favourite, Halifax heavyweight Adam Fogerty has made it 16 wins out of seventeen as he gained an easy points win over Terry Armstrong from Cincinatti at the Dewsbury Sports Centre last month.

Armstrong was no pushover and was used by Fogerty's manager Terry Lawless as a regular sparring partner for Frank Bruno for his fight with Mike Tyson, and last year he fought Gary Mason.

Slow but surely is the way Terry Lawless manages his boxers and that is the way he is bringing Adam Fogerty along. It's good news for British boxing and especially good news for fight fans in the North who are getting every opportunity to see the preparation of a future champion.

Looking Forward to the Festival

WINNERS HAVE been hard to find during the grim winter months with the form book being turned upside down as horse after horse fails to run up to its best.

Martin Pipe's Hopscotch it a prime example. It wins its races by 30 lengths so is 6-1 on (that means you have to put on £6 to win £1) for its next run. It gets beaten by Master Dancer and Marlinford by 2 and 5 lengths. Three weeks later it runs again and this time beats Master Dancer and Marlinford by 5 and 10 lengths. Form just means nothing at the moment.

The plot on Foujita was a total disaster. It was entered in a tiny race at Wolverhampton. We all got 5-1 in the morning and it finished up 5-2 favourite. It ran like a crab and was never in the hunt.

The Cheltenham Festival in March is what we turn to now for that is where horses will run to form. Get on CELTIC SHOT with Corals at 8-1 for the Gold Cup it's tremendous value. Charlie Brooks is doing everything right in preparing the former Champion Hurdler for his big day.

ROYAL DERBI is our each way advice for the Champion Hurdle. He has come along gradually throughout the season and 1991 offers his best chance to lift the premier hurdling prize. Make sure you get the 14-1 offered on the Newmarket hopeful.

Finally, CRYSTAL SPIRIT from Ian Balding's flat racing yard must capture the Sun Alliance Hurdle. Have no doubts about it this 4 year-old is a future champion!

GULF WAR: TED BUDDEN'S STOP PRESS SPECIAL

STRANGE PRIORITIES!

I SEE THAT the Israelis are demanding 10 billion dollars from the Americans to finance the resettling of the million plus Russian Jewish immigrants expected in Israel over the next ten years. At the same time the Americans are demanding and getting 13 billion dollars from Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates to finance their attack on Iraq and to bribe the governments of Egypt and Turkey.

So it seems that the Arabs will be paying for America's war in order that America will have the money to resettle Jews on Arab territory. It is difficult to know whether the oil sheiks are just plain stupid or just plain treacherous - they could of course be both.

The Americans, of course, deny that there is any "linkage" between their attack on Iraq and the Palestinian issue. Naturally we must believe them just as we must accept their sonorous assertion that Iraq has ignored "the solemn resolutions of the United Nations" - not to be confused with the eighty odd "solemn resolutions of the United Nations" on Israel that the Americans have vetoed over the years.

While nobody believes that Saddam Hussein annexed Kuwait for the sake of the Palestinians, his somewhat ineffectual Scud missile attacks on Israel have not so much established a link between Palestine and Kuwait as confirmed that such a link already existed.

If the all-powerful Jewish Lobby in the United States and Britain were not deeply involved behind the scenes in the attack on Iraq, why should there be such an orchestrated chorus of outrage at attacks on Israel that seem to have caused about as much damage as a Saturday night punch-up at the local pub.

While the innocent victims of war deserve our sympathy no matter who they are, Israeli casualties of the Iraqi attacks are fewer than those suffered by unarmed Palestinians in five minutes when the Israelis go on their regular shooting sprees. Yet the front pages of our newspapers are filled with pictures of the grieving relatives of an Israeli who died of a heart attack during a Scud missile raid and we are exhorted to demand Saddam's head on a platter for his sacrilege.

In fact Israel's few casualties get far more coverage in our newspapers than the many hundreds of British victims of the IRA who usually merit only a couple of column inches on an inside page.

It is almost as if Israel were a province of Britain or Britain a province of Israel.

I wonder which it is.
